DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-6 are presented for examination.

Specification

2. The use of the trademarks "America On-line," "MusicNet," and "Digital City" have been noted in this application. They should be capitalized wherever it appears and be accompanied by the generic terminology.

Although the use of trademarks is permissible in patent applications, the proprietary nature of the marks should be respected and every effort made to prevent their use in any manner which might adversely affect their validity as trademarks.

3. The disclosure is objected to because it contains embedded hyperlinks and/or other form of browser-executable code, "http://www.home.digitalcity.com" and "www.musicnet.com" on page 8, in paragraph 34. Applicant is required to delete the embedded hyperlink and/or other form of browser-executable code. See MPEP § 608.01.

4. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: reference character 20 has been used to designate "the online subscriber" in paragraph 41 and "the Resource Integrator Client" in paragraph 42 in the specification. The examiner recognizes that "the Resource Integrator Client run[s] on the subscriber's computer," however because the Resource Integrator Client is presumably only a software component resident upon the subscriber's computer, different reference characters should be used to designate these elements. Appropriate correction is required.

5. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Applicant states on page 9, paragraph 41, line 4 "record the subscriber's selections with servers 26, 28, 30, 32 that provide the..." It is believed the Applicant meant to write "record the subscriber's selections with servers 26, 28, 30, 34 that provide the..." as reference character 32 has previously been used to indicate the Internet. Appropriate correction is required.
6. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 11, paragraph 48, line 2 states "For example, within the DCT Today..." It is thought that applicant meant to write "For example, within the DCI Today..." Appropriate correction is required.
7. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 11, paragraph 49, lines 2-3 state "The processes fork on demand and maintained in a pool..." It is thought that applicant meant to write "The processes fork on demand and are maintained in a pool..." Appropriate correction is required.
8. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 12, paragraph 51, line 2 states "API's for server PreQuene..." It is thought that applicant meant to write "API's for server PreQueue..." Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

9. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

10. Claims 2 and 3 recite the limitation "the system." There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

11. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

12. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

13. With respect to claim 1, "A comprehensive and integrated music search and discovery tool...comprising: a mega indexer platform...a DCI Today platform...and a server PreQueue platform..." appears to be directed to an arrangement that does not necessarily include hardware. The specification describes the tool as working "in connection with personal computers, mobile devices, portable digital assistants (PDA's), or network enabled cell phones (see Specification, page 6, paragraph 21)" and the mega indexer platform, the DCI Today platform and the server PreQueue platform as "primary software components (see Specification, page 10, paragraph 44)." None of the components of this claim appear to be limited to hardware and as such are not limited to tangible embodiments, instead being sufficiently broad to encompass software, per se. Claims 2 and 3 fail to add any additional structure to the system, instead merely further limiting the intended use of the system. Thus, they fail to overcome the deficiencies of claim 1. Therefore, Claims 1-3 thus fail to fall within a statutory category of invention as they claim software per se.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

14. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

15. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dunning et al. (U.S. 7,024,485).

16. With respect to claim 1, Dunning teaches a comprehensive and integrated music search and discovery tool for allowing a user to find music information available from a music service in one place, by any of song or artist, comprising:

A mega indexer platform for versioning and bouncing of searchable runtime data structures across multiple systems that is atomic at the HTTP connection level (Dunning, col. 3, line 52 – col. 4, line 12); a DCI Today platform for integration of a Web server within a client process to provide a framework for secure client side Web applications, even while off line (Dunning, col. 13, lines 21-57); and a server PreQueue platform to minimize overhead associated with waiting for remote resources in a multi-threaded IO model (Dunning, col. 6, lines 54-67 and col. 7, lines 12-39).

17. With respect to claim 2, Dunning teaches the invention described in claim 1, including the system of further comprising: a music toolbox (Dunning, col. 13, lines 1-57).
18. With respect to claim 3, Dunning teaches the invention described in claim 2, including the system wherein said comprehensive music search and discovery (Dunning, col. 13, lines 1-6) is implementable for a plurality of electronic content (Dunning, col. 10, lines 52-58).
19. Claims 4-6 do not teach or define any new limitations above claims 1-3 and therefore are rejected for similar reasons.
